ATTACK IN KUBAN
Axis Claims Advance

A GERMAN success on the Kuban front was claimed in yesterday's German communiqué, quoted by Reuter. It stated that the front had been pushed back in the Lagoon area of the Kuban bridgehead

This was the only major activity reported along the whole of Russia's 1,200-mile front, as the "lull" entered upon its 100th day. At key-points on widely separated sectors patrols from both side were criss-crossing no man's land and sneaking past outpost defences to discover what was going on behind the lines on the other side.

On the front before Moscow, Soviet scouts crossed an Axis minefield, cut barbed wire entanglements, and broke into a system of trenches with Tommy-guns and hand grenades. They brought back prisoners for questioning. Similar raids were carried out on the North-western front, and near Byelgorod, Donetz bridgehead, 50 miles north-west of Kharkov. North of this area, along the southern flank of the Orel bulge, where the Russians have lately been reconnoitring in force, German patrols were active, but were driven back.

The Russians have been carrying out reconnaissance across the Donetz river, in the area of Lisichansk, in specially equipped boats or floating across the stream in cork lifeboats. They made these amphibious patrols for six consecutive nights, says Berlin, and stormed and temporarily held an island in mid-stream.

According to the Associated Press, the German radio said the Russians attempted to cross the Donetz by paddling over singly on inflated rubber rings. A number of them succeeded in reaching the western bank, but were wiped out by German machine-gun fire.

TANK RAID

The Russians have attacked with nearly a brigade of tanks south of Velikie Luki—westernmost tip of the front, only 80 miles from the Latvian border—the German News Agency announced last night. The report said that the attack had some initial success, but that it was later thrown back to its starting point with heavy losses. Hard fighting for tactical positions at this key point has been going on for the past week.

That German troops in the tip of the Caucasus had "bolted off" the Russians from the Kuban bridgehead was also claimed by the German News Agency last night. Giving details of the Kuban action, reported in yesterday's German communiqué, the report said: "In the Lagoon area, before Temryuk, the battles which have raged for two months have been ended by a concentrated attack by German grenadiers.

"Mastering the unbelievable difficulties of this marshy terrain, they closed a gap which was being continually used by the Soviets for operations in landing boats and barges against German rear communications, and shot a firm bolt from the Lagoon area to the Sea of Azov."

Pope Issues Warning

A warning against present-day errors, which "at times came close to heresies," is given in an Encyclical issued by the Pope on the 25th anniversary of his consecration as a Bishop, and published in the Vatican newspaper, Osservatore Romano. The chief of these, quoted by the Italian News Agency, are:

1—A false mysticism inclining us to identify ourselves with Christ and deify ourselves in Him.

2—Spiritual laziness, implying that Christians need make no effort to achieve salvation.

3—Disregard for the Sacrament of confession, except when the soul is burdened with mortal sin.

4—Under-valuation of the virtue of private prayer to God.

5—A tendency to see in Christ only a Mediator, forgetting that He is also the Son of God and God Himself.—(Reuter.)

Big Allied Raids on Axis Island Airfields

LATEST reports from North Africa refer to big raids on aerodromes in Sicily and Sardinia, which are officially described as the heaviest since the fall of Pantelleria and Lampedusa.

Strong Fighter Opposition

The greatest number of 'planes used since the attacks on Pantelleria and Lampedusa was employed in raids on Sardinia and Sicily on Saturday. Determined fighter opposition and some of the heaviest A.A. fire over experienced by fighter pilots was met over Sicily. At Sardinia, however, there was little fighter opposition.

In fierce air battles Allied airmen shot down 10 'planes. Nine Allied 'planes were lost.

Trapani was heavily attacked by Wellington bombers on Friday night.

COMMUNIQUES

Yesterday's communiqué from Allied H.Q., North Africa, said:—"On Saturday heavy and medium bombers attacked airfields in Sardinia. Flying Fortresses, escorted by Lightnings, bombed the airfield at Chilivani, while Mitchells and Marauders, with escorts of Lightnings and Warhawks, attacked Alghero, Milis, and Capoterra airfields.

"Other Lightnings and Warhawks attacked wireless stations, gun emplacements, and other targets in Sardinia.

"Mitchells, Bostons, and Baltimores, escorted by Warhawks, attacked the Sicilian airfields at Milo, Sciacca, and Comiso. Dispersal areas and administrative buildings were well covered with bombs.

"During these operations ten enemy aircraft were destroyed in combat. Nine of ours are missing."

50 CLAIMED

Yesterday's Italian communiqué stated:—

"Italian and German fighters and A.A. batteries on Saturday were particularly successful against enemy attacks over Sicily and Sardinia. Our fighters and A.A. guns repeatedly dispersed the enemy 'planes before they were able to reach their targets.

"Our 'planes also chased the enemy machines far out to sea. Over Sicily, in repeated and victorious air duels our fighters destroyed 18 enemy 'planes. German fighters destroyed ten enemy 'planes. Our A.A. batteries destroyed a further 22 enemy 'planes. The enemy thus lost a total of 50 'planes, among them numerous four-engined bombers.

"Damage caused in the target areas was slight. The number of casualties among the population was also limited.

"Last night a formation of enemy 'planes dropped several bombs and anti-personnel bombs on Ostia and Fiumicino. Enemy 'planes later flew over the suburbs of Rome. No casualties are reported. The Rome A.A. batteries went into action."

Ostia and Fiumicino are both about 10 miles south-west of Rome. Ostia, a town of 5,500 inhabitants near the mouth of the Tiber, is the port of Rome. Both places are known as the "lidos" of Rome.

A commentator on Rome radio on Saturday night said: "Palermo has been bombed more times than one can count. It has stopped being a military target for some time. The city is very nearly completely ruined, and can be considered useless as far as the war effort is concerned."

CAN TAKE IT

Signor Favio Massimo, Rome radio political commentator, said: "Mr. Churchill has told the Italians they are going to get a hell of a hammering. We repeat—we can take it."

The official responsible for the harvest in the Turin province has been sent to a concentration camp for not obeying Government regulations, said the German overseas radio yesterday. Two other officials have also been arrested in Turin. In Florence the chief of the fruit and vegetable trust has been arrested for black marketing.—(Reuter.)

MORE BARGES

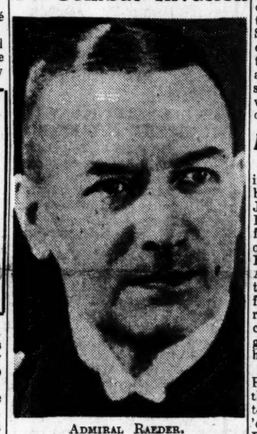
Increasing numbers of Allied invasion barges are concentrating in Mediterranean ports from Gibraltar to Cyprus, including Pantelleria, according to the Italian Air Force journal, Via Dell Aria, says Reuter.

German troops have occupied a coastal stretch of Greek Thrace and towns on the Turkish frontier, according to information reaching Cairo, says Reuter. This zone was formerly controlled by Bulgarian troops.

General Franco to Build Bombers

GENERAL FRANCO has ordered the creation of a company, partly State-owned, to build bombers and transport aircraft, says a Madrid despatch to the German News Agency.—(Reuter.)

To Combat Invasion



ADMIRAL RAEDER.

The Stockholm paper, Aftonbladet, states that a new general military branch, headed by Admiral Raeder, has been created to combat any Allied invasion.

The new branch, according to Aftonbladet, will be organised in four divisions—coastguard, submarine, light naval forces and heavy naval forces. The despatch indicated that the step chiefly meant reorganisation within the German Navy, although personnel would also be drawn from the Army and the Luftwaffe. These units suggest, said the newspaper, that they were designed primarily for operations in defensive coastal areas from Norway to Greece.—(Reuter.)

Independence Day in U.S.A.

Commenting on Independence Day, yesterday, the New York Times said:—"The 167th anniversary of our independence finds our welfare closely linked with that of Britain, Russia and China. If those three nations collapsed we should not long be independent. This is true now, and it will be true when this war is over. The new fact in the world is the fact of interdependence. If this war does not teach us what we have to learn we will have to go back to school in a third world war."

U.S. railways estimated that the July 4 week-end holiday rush was the greatest in history despite an official request to stay at home. It was a petrolless July 4.

Two destroyers, the Hickox and the Healy, were launched at Kearny, New Jersey, yesterday.

The back-to-work movement became a stampede in the Pennsylvania anthracite fields and prospects are that most miners will work a holiday shift to-day for the first time.

Earthquake tremors in the vicinity of Columbia or Mexico were recorded at Fordham University, New York, at 5.58 a.m. and 6.03 a.m. yesterday. They were described as "mild, but sufficient to cause damage."(Reuter and A.P.)

Lord Croft on Coming Battle

Lord Croft, British Under Secretary for War, at Cambridge yesterday, said: "Before very long many parts of the country will be relying almost entirely on the Home Guard for defence. Germany may launch an attack, which, if it came, would be by air-borne units, and the home guard would then be of greater value than ever before.

He believed that the greatest battle in British military history was approaching.

MacARTHUR LEADS PACIFIC OFFENSIVE

THE view that the Allied Pacific offensive is "the big push, not just island hopping," is held by the majority of leading American newspapers, though there is some division of opinion as to how far the operations will extend.

Many papers, Reuter reports, see the action as part of the Churchill-Roosevelt plan formulated at Washington.

The New York Times said:—"The South Sea offensive is an answer to critics who said we were not pushing our war against Japan with sufficient vigour. We should not look for an early and glittering success in the Far East. What is being accomplished there is a first step in a long journey."

NO OPPOSITION

A special correspondent in Sydney, cabling that General MacArthur personally directed the American landings in the Solomons, says: "I watched special landing craft weighed down by troops and equipment slide ashore without opposition in the grey, cloudy light of dawn. There was perfect co-operation between army, navy and air forces. The landing craft, practically unknown before the war, had mostly been built since Pearl Harbour."

A Washington report states that the Allies reckon on a three weeks' campaign to reduce Munda, which is estimated to be garrisoned by 5,000 Japanese.

Over Rendova, it is stated, 30 Japanese fighters on Friday, and another 20 on Saturday, were intercepted, and six were shot down for the loss of three Allied 'planes. On Saturday, also, 10 interceptors engaged 50 Zeros, destroying five for the loss of three. Japanese aircraft, attacking Nassau Bay area for the second successive day, were dispersed without doing any damage, it was claimed.

EXTENDING FRONT

An eastern extension of the front in the South-West Pacific is indicated by the shelling by surface craft of Japanese positions on Vangunu Island, which is separated by only a few miles from the south-east coast of New Georgia, where Viru Harbour is already in Allied hands. American and Australian jungle-trained troops are, it is claimed, forming an ever-tightening ring round Salamaua. The mountainous country and thick jungle make progress slow, but sharp patrol clashes have taken place near Bobdubi.

The intense air bombardment of Rabaul's aerodromes continues. For the fourth successive night Liberators have bombed the three main 'dromes of Lacunai, Vunakanau, and Rapopo. Since January last year, when they landed on Rabaul, the Japanese have made it a strong naval and air base, ancillary to Truk, their main stronghold 800 miles north. An Allied base on Rabaul, on the northern tip of New Britain, would bring Truk within Allied bombing range.

Nine heavy bombing raids on Kiska, in the Aleutian Islands, are announced in yesterday's U.S. Navy communiqué.

WAR MATERIAL

Mr. Joseph Grew, special assistant to the U.S. Secretary of State and former Ambassador to Japan, stated yesterday: "We are sending to the Asiatic theatre every instrument of war that the traffic will stand, and the traffic itself is steadily increasing. No front is being neglected."

HE FOUND IT

APOLOGISING for turning up at an American Independence Day celebration at Nottingham yesterday, with a burnt nose, singed eyebrows and hair, the Lord Mayor (Ald. E. A. Braddock) said:—

"I was looking for an escape of gas at my home with a lighted candle, and—I found it."

Korda May Come to Dublin

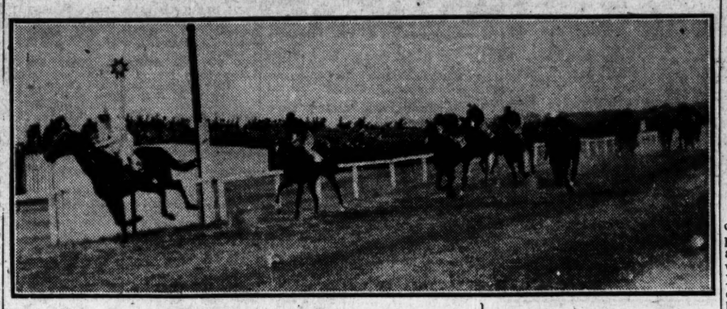
Some of the scenes of the new film, "War and Peace," on which Sir Alexander Korda is working, may be shot in Ireland. The film, which is based on Tolstoy's great novel of the Napoleonic campaign in Russia, is the outstanding production in Britain's screen programme for this year and will be one of the most important in the career of this great producer, whose other work includes "The Four Feathers," "The Jungle Book," "Sabu," "The Private Life of Henry VIII." and other notable successes.

As the story, "War and Peace," includes many battle episodes the same circumstances to apply to the the shooting of the film, the "Battle of Agincourt," appear to obtain.

U.S. Casualties

The United States Office of War Information, in a Washington report, yesterday stated that United States casualties since the war began were 21,644, including 16,696 killed, 28,828 wounded, 31,579 missing, and 21,541 prisoners of war.—(Associated Press.)

Finish of the Baldoyle Derby



First Glider "Train" Crosses Atlantic

THE first air "train" has crossed the Atlantic, set up a world record in total distance for a glider carrying freight, and opened an era of new possibilities in air transport.

Carrying vaccines for Russia, radio aircraft and motor parts, the "Atlantic Glider" was towed 3,500 miles from Montreal to Britain in 28 flying hours.

84 FT. SPAN

The glider, which has an 84-foot wing-span, was designed by the W.A.C.U. aircraft firm and built by a piano manufacturer in New York. The freight load is one and a half tons. It was equipped with rubber dinghies, ordinary ocean emergency equipment, and flotation gear. The steel attachments were designed to take a pull of 20,000lb. On the journey from Montreal to Britain conditions were mainly favourable. At one stage the pilots were forced down by bad weather through three belts of thunderstorms, ice and snow until they were only 1,500 feet above the ground. At one point the glider was towed at 9,000 feet.

For the Atlantic crossing the tow-plane carried special tanks for extra fuel which could be jettisoned intact should the need arise; petrol could not be jettisoned loose, as it would spray back on to the glider and atmospheric electricity might ignite the petrol and fire the glider. The trip was made in stages, the first take-off being early in the morning. The "train" circled the airfield precisely on the estimated time of arrival.

There is no heating system in the glider, and temperature can drop to 30 below zero. At one time snow formed inside the glider.

EXPERIMENTS

The non-stop record flight for a glider carrying freight had already been made by S/Ldr. Seys, who began experiments for the crossing about six months ago. All trials were made with the glider fully loaded to test the possibilities of a passenger, freight—military or commercial—air train service across the Atlantic. Some of the worst weather known in North America for fifty years was met during these experiments. On one occasion the glider force-landed in deep snow, during a blizzard, in mountainous country 60 miles from Montreal.

The first major achievement was a triangular-course flight from and back to Montreal by way of Newfoundland and Labrador. The last stage of this flight, 820 miles, set up a record for a glider fully loaded with freight, beating the American record of 670 miles.—(Press Association.)

COMPLETE AIR COVER SAVES OCEAN CONVOY

ANOTHER valuable convoy crossed the Atlantic a few weeks ago without interference from powerful forces of U-boats. Complete shore to shore air cover was provided by carrier-borne aircraft of the Fleet Air Arm, working in co-operation with land based aircraft, states a British Admiralty and Air Ministry communiqué.

The convoy was also protected by surface escorts, and close air cover was provided during the initial stage of the passage by Ventura, Hudson, Liberator, and Cataline aircraft of the Royal Canadian Air Force, Eastern Air Command, and during the final stage by Liberator, Sunderland, and Halifax aircraft of the Royal Air Force Coastal Command.

The mid-Atlantic air gap between the extreme escorting ranges of these shore based aircraft was bridged by Swordfish and Martlet aircraft from the escort carrier, H.M.S. Archer. In a series of attacks, which extended over two days, one U-boat was destroyed, another was probably destroyed, and others may have been damaged. The actions began when a U-boat, moving in the direction of the convoy, was sighted on the surface by naval aircraft. The aircraft attacked with depth charges, and forced the submarine to dive.

Next morning a U-boat, proceeding at periscope depth many miles from the convoy, was attacked by another aircraft of the Fleet Air Arm. Depth charges straddled the submarine abreast the conning tower, and it is considered that this submarine was probably destroyed. About this time a Liberator aircraft of a Coastal Command squadron which has made many successful attacks on U-boats recently sighted a submarine to the eastward of the convoy and attacked it. The result of this action is not known.

25-Hour Queue for Isle of Man

Holiday-makers bound for the Isle of Man formed a queue at Fleetwood yesterday for a steamer which was not due to leave for another 25 hours. Many of them were among the 600 who failed to secure accommodation on the steamer on Saturday. Some had waited outside the railway station for 20 hours, and such was their anger that the L.M.S. Railway police obtained the assistance of the Lancashire County Police to control the crowd.

1,031 Ships Sunk or Damaged

A total of 1,031 Japanese ships of all types have been sunk or damaged by the Allies since Pearl Harbour, according to a Reuter's report from Washington. They include three battleships sunk and ten damaged, six aircraft-carriers sunk and nine-damaged, with one other probably sunk; 34 cruisers sunk, four probably sunk and 68 damaged; 62 transports sunk and 178 supply ships sunk and 187 damaged.

Senate Nominees

North Tipperary County Council voted for seven members to represent them on the Seanad electoral panel. There were 14 nominations: J. A. Boland, W. Brennan, J. Cahalan, E. Hayes, S. Hayes, B. Lawlor James Maher (Thurles), T. Maher (Kilcooke), T. Meagher (Templemore), W. Moloney, D. O'Neill, J. P. Stakelum P. Tierney and T. Williams.

Co. Roscommon Vocational Education Committee elected Professor Liam O Buachalla, U.C., Galway, and Professor J. M. O'Sullivan, Kerry, to the cultural and educational panel.

British Communists' Aims

New rules adopted at yesterday's session of the British Communist Party declare the aims of the organisation were to achieve a "Socialist Britain," in which public ownership of the means of production and exchange should replace the capitalist system; co-operation with all other sections of the Labour movement, and that every member should belong to an appropriate trade union, professional organisation or co-operative society.

A resolution was adopted pledging the members to act as model trade union builders and to the recruitment of "millions of members to the unions."

General Giraud is expected to arrive in Washington in the next twenty-four hours after his swift flight across the South Atlantic on Saturday, Reuter reports.

L.G. Officials on "Disquieting" Developments

IN the course of his address to the annual conference of the Irish Local Government Officials' Union, in the City Hall, Dublin, last Saturday, the re-elected president, Mr. P. O'Byrne, said that there had been a few developments which they must regard as disquieting. The principal of those was in relation to the emergency bonus.

The union had pressed for years for some form of Arbitration Board to settle or advise on disputes relating to salaries and conditions of employment. They had been met on every occasion by the answer that the Minister himself constituted all the arbitration machinery necessary.

GRADUATES

Another disquieting feature was the attitude of the Ministry towards the proposed amendment of the superannuation code. If the proposal to introduce University graduates into the administrative grade of the local service were carried out it would, he feared, have a most demoralising effect on the service, as the prospects of promotion virtually would disappear.

The delegates were welcomed by the Lord Mayor, who spoke of the efficiency and the integrity of the members of the union, and referred to the miserable spirit in which the bonus had been dealt with.

ANNUAL REPORT

The annual report, which was adopted, stated that the ever-increasing tendency towards concentration of all power and authority in the Minister for Local Government and Public Health had not made for more sympathetic administration so far as officials were concerned.

Motions were passed protesting against the attitude of the Minister for Local Government and Public Health in discriminating against Local Government officials in the matter of emergency increases; deploring the tendency to depart from the principle of recruitment to the service of local authorities by competitive examination and to confine higher posts to university graduates; and demanding that the Minister for Local Government and Public Health should implement the undertaking given to the union in 1934 by the immediate introduction of legislation to provide a pension scheme for Local Government officials on lines similar to those in operation in the Civil Service.

Messrs. P. O'Flanagan (Limerick), T. Mekitarian (Meath) and K. Power (Dublin) were elected vice-presidents; Mr. V. N. Chamberlaine (Dublin Corporation) was elected honorary financial secretary, and Mr. James Murphy (Grangegorman) hon. secretary.

TRIBUTE

The annual Conference supper was held in the Central Hotel.

Responding to the toast of the guests, Mr. P. J. Hernon, Dublin City Manager, said that the Local Government officials did their job well, and he was very glad to have that opportunity to say how much he appreciated the way in which they did their duty.

MR. F. S. MYERSCOUGH'S Scots Guard winning the Baldoyle Derby on Saturday. Scots Guard led throughout the race and won by 2½ lengths from the favourite, Solar Prince. He is a stable companion of The Phœnix, winner of the Irish Derby a few weeks ago.

BRITAIN TO SLOW UP IN MUNITIONS

MR. OLIVER LYTTELTON, British Minister of Production, broadcasting last night, said: "We are going slow now upon many of the munitions used by the Army because we have them in abundance, so that we may still further increase our production of ships, and, above all, of aircraft.

"Over the whole field of war production, naval and other shipbuilding, Army munitions and aircraft, the production of the British Commonwealth is now larger than that of Germany, Austria and Czechoslovakia put together.

"The Axis can now calculate how the production of Italy, Japan and the occupied territories compares with the vast output of the United States and Russia. They can derive what satisfaction they like from this chastening thought."

Britain was now living on less than half the imports received in a normal year before the war. The people worked the longest hours that could be endured. In the munitions industries the average hours worked each week by men had exceeded 55, and by women it had exceeded 50. If workers in the factories did longer hours their output would not go up.

LONG WAY YET

Sir Stafford Cripps, British Minister of Aircraft Production, said at Birmingham on Saturday:—"We see to-day further evidence of the offensive developing in the Pacific. We still have to relieve our great ally, China, and then we have to strike, as the Prime Minister once said, at the soft spots in the under-belly of Europe. Fortunately, it is a big under-belly, and it has many soft spots."

They still had a very great deal to do before they could start talking about victory in realistic terms. The Axis had powers and industrial resources, even though their resources were being greatly diminished by the Allied offensive, and there was a long way to trave before final victory was reached.

Blimps to Fight U-Boats

Two hundred U.S. Navy blimps, intended for anti-U-boat patrols off the coasts of the western hemisphere, are nearing completion, it was reported yesterday in Washington. One navy blimp recently made a 3,000-mile flight in four days.

In May, America produced between 7,100 and 7,200 'planes, with June production figures expected to show another increase, although, perhaps, not as great as was hoped.—(Reuter and A.P.)

BIG DAY RAIDS ON FRANCE

Soon after mid-day yesterday a strong force of aircraft, in closely-packed formations, passed over Folkestone and crossed the Straits of Dover towards Northern France. Large formations of heavy bombers of U.S. Army 8th Air Force attacked targets in occupied France during the day.

A British Air Ministry communiqué stated last night:—"This afternoon Mitchells, escorted by Spitfires, bombed railway yards at Amiens. At the same time other Spitfires carried out sweeps over Northern France. Two enemy aircraft were destroyed. Four of our aircraft are missing."

New Feature in Garda Training

Special lectures dealing with modern methods of criminal investigation are a new feature in the training of recruits to the Garda Siochana. Entrants at the Depôt have attended a series of the lectures delivered by Detective Superintendents G. Lawlor, D. J. Stapleton, and Detective Sergeants E. Mooney, M. P. Wall, and T. Elwin. The recruits were shown over the Technical Bureau and given demonstrations of technical methods.

Half Went to Britain

More than half the prize fund of £65,580 in the Irish Hospitals' Sweepstake on the Baldoyle Derby, which was won by Scot's Guard at Baldoyle on Saturday, went to Britain, £20,930 came to Eire, and the remaining £9,581 went to Northern Ireland.

Scot's Guard's win brought £10,000 each to "The Russians," c/o Miss A. J. Golden, Avoca, Co. Wicklow; Mrs. Duncan, Burnley, and "Normanfan," Lancashire. Solar Prince, placed second, won £3,000 each for "Observer," Newtownards, Co. Down; "Welcome," Dungannon, Co. Tyrone, and "Brownie," Ipswich. £1,000 was won by each of the following on Solferino: "Last Five Bob," Dromore, Killygordon, Co. Donegal; B. T. Smith, Keskeith Bank, and "Wee Douglas," Glasgow.

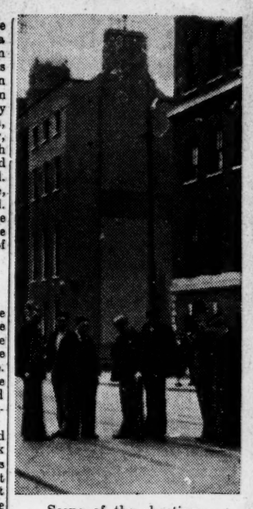
ESCAPED PRISONER SHOT DEAD IN DUBLIN

TWENTY-THREE-YEAR-OLD John Laurence Griffith, escaped prisoner from Mountjoy Jail, residing at Pigeon House Fort road, Dublin, was shot dead in an encounter with police at the corner of Merrion square and Lower Mount street, about half-past one o'clock yesterday.

Griffith was cycling towards the city when he was approached by a police patrol car. Recognising him as one of a number of prisoners who had escaped from Mountjoy in November last, the police closed in on him, the intention evidently being to force him to stop. Griffith, it appears, opened fire on the car, discharging two shots, one of which smashed the left-hand lamp, and the other struck the running board.

The detectives returned the fire, four or five bullets being discharged. Griffith was hit, and fell in the middle of the crossing from the Maternity Hospital to the corner of Merrion square.



Scene of the shooting.

FEW ABOUT

Being Sunday dinner hour, there were not as many people about the street as usual, but many of those in the vicinity, startled by the shooting, rushed to the scene. Among them was a priest, who gave Absolution. The police car had pulled to a halt against the footpath near the corner of the square.

The ambulance quickly arrived and took the man to Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital, where he was found to be dead. He had been shot through the back of the right shoulder and the front of the breast, above the heart—death, apparently, being instantaneous.

A young woman who was one of the first on the scene told an Irish Times reporter that she was at her dinner when she heard the sound of a revolver shot. "I ran out into the street," she said, "and saw a young man lying in the middle of the road near a bicycle. I knelt down beside him and then a priest—I think he was a stranger who was passing—came and prayed over the man, but I think he was then dead."

OFFICIAL

The following statement was made last night by the Government Information Bureau:—

"At about 1.30 p.m. to-day at Lower Mount street, Dublin, a young man named John Griffith was fatally wounded in an encounter with members of the Garda Siochana who were endeavouring to effect his arrest. Griffith had previously been convicted of attempting to discharge a loaded pistol at a member of the Garda Siochana with intend to do grievous bodily harm and was sentenced to a term of ten years' penal servitude, but he escaped from Mountjoy Prison on 1st November, 1942, while serving this sentence.

"It is understood that an inquest will be held to-morrow."

Heroic Rescues from Hotel Fire

The Harp Hotel, Cahirciveen, one of the oldest and best known hostelries in Kerry, was burnt to the ground during the night, everything in the building being destroyed.

The fire was discovered at 1 a.m. by Miss Eileen Sugrue, who, wakened by the smell, found the house in flames. She raised the alarm, and, with other occupants, got to the front room and shouted for help. The cries were heard by Messrs. B. Walsh, postman; Paddy Walsh and Tim Connor, well-known Gaelic footballers, who, with the aid of a ladder, rescued those in the front room.

Mr. John O'Connell, son of the proprietor, who had escaped by the back, burst back through the smoke and flames and brought his father, Mr. Timothy J. O'Connell, who was unconscious, to safety.

Mr. B. Walsh went through the smoke-filled house and found Mrs Barry, national teacher, overcome by fumes, in a bedroom, and, at great risk, carried her fom the burning building. With the help of Mr. T. Connor, she was removed to a nearby shop, where Rev. H. Keane rendered spiritual aid. She is still unconscious, and Mr. T. J. O'Connell is also in a precarious condition, having been badly burnt.

Mr. John O'Connell, in rescuing his father, was badly burnt about the face and hands.

When the fire alarm was raised every available man in the town turned out to prevent the fire from spreading to the adjoining houses. They worked a chain of water buckets, and, with hand pumps, succeeded in confining the fire to the hotel. The military arrived and laid a line of hose and subdued the flames, and the local Gardai also assisted.

R.A.F. Bomb Two Suburbs of Cologne

A British Air Ministry communiqué states:—

"On Saturday night aircraft of Bomber Command in great strength attacked Kalk and Deutz, industrial districts of Cologne, on the east bank of the Rhine. Preliminary reports indicate that bombing was well concentrated.

"Bombs were also dropped on objectives in Hamburg and in the Ruhr, and mines were laid in enemy waters.

"Aircraft of Fighter Command carried out intruder patrols over Holland, Belgium and France. One enemy aircraft was destroyed.

"Thirty-two of our bombers are missing."

Vichy radio said yesterday that on Saturday night and Sunday morning powerful British air formations crossed the Channel in the direction of the continent. No reports as to their targets had then been received, but the radio added: "The lull in the West appears to have come to an end."

The German News Agency claimed that, while the exact number was not known, "more British 'planes were shot down in Saturday night's attack on Cologne than in the last terror attack on the night of June 29." The Agency added: "The Anglo-American Air Force on Saturday lost nearly 100 'planes over the Mediterranean, as well as over Germany and the occupied territories in the West."

Cologne has about 750,000 inhabitants, and is the industrial centre of the Rhineland. Kalk, Deutz, and Mulheim form only a small proportion of the city.

Scots Guard Brings off the Derby Double

SCOTS GUARD on Saturday won the Baldoyle Derby for Mr. Fred Myerscough in even easier style than the same owner's The Phœnix won the Irish Derby a couple of weeks ago. It was an unprofitable race for most backers, the majority of whom relied on Solar Prince and Solferino, who had been placed in the premier Irish classic at the Curragh. They again ran into places, but without ever looking like troubling the winner, who led virtually throughout.

It was a very smart performance on the part of Scots Guard, who was bought as a yearling by Mr. Myerscough for 135 guineas at the Ballsbridge sales. The colt was bred by the Aga Khan. Mr. Myerscough and Joe Canty completed a profitable double when the well-backed Mark Forward won the Heath Plate in easy style from Barrousse.

T. W. Dreaper also scored a double with Maritime Law and Kai Ling. T. Hyde being the successful rider in each instance, while the young Rathbride Manor trainer, M. Dawson, had compensation for several recent failures with Father Tracey when Mr. Mallock's gelding readily won the Portmarnock Plate. Details:—

FINE PERFORMANCE OF SCHOOL CREW

The outstanding performance of the Dublin Metropolitan regatta was that by Rockwell College, who made the roving a dead-heat with Neptune in the final of the Visitors' Cup (maiden eights), won the re-row by a length. This is the first time that a schoolboy crew has won this trophy. The second senior four of Commercial R.C. had the bad luck to break a rigger in the final against Dublin University, who rowed home alone. The finals resulted as under:—

Senior Eights.—Dublin University beat U.C.D., ½l.

Senior Fours.—Dublin University beat U.C.D., 1½l.

Second Senior Fours.—Dublin University finished alone. Commercial broke a rigger and took no part in the race.

Junior Eights.—Dublin University beat Commercial, 1l.

Junior Fours.—U.C.D. beat Commercial, ½l.

Maiden Eights.—Rockwell College beat Neptune R.C., 1l., after a dead-heat.

Maiden Fours.—Neptune beat Rockwell College "A," 2l.

Schools' Cup.—Rockwell College beat Portora Royal School, 1l.

Senior Scullers (Championship of Ireland) Cup.—R. Hughes (U.C.D.) rowed over. Mr. B. Walsh (Dublin University) scr., having strained a muscle.

Junior Scullers.—J. A. R. Hanna (Dublin University) beat D. J. Farrelly (U.C.D.), 3l.

EASIEST WAY TO REDUCE FAT

Tens of thousands of grateful women know that 'Marmola' brand Antifat Tablets genuinely enable you to reduce safely and gently. You can continue to eat what you like, at the same time avoiding strenuous exercise and the very positive danger of weakening caused by drastic purgatives.

Four times a day they take a little 'Marmola' tablet, containing in exactly the right quantity a world-famous corrective for obesity which prevents your food from turning into useless fat. This corrective is proved to be a most effective fat reducer. To-day — buy a package of 'Marmola' and start at once. When you have slimmed to your liking and are once more the proud possessor of a beautiful slender figure, stop taking 'Marmola.'

Sold by all chemists at 3/- per box. Patents & Johnson (Ireland), Ltd., (Dept. 42), 43/46 Gt. Strand St., Dublin.

M. B. Williams Gets Seven Clontarf Wickets

UNLESS rain interferes with the wicket at Rathmines, it looks as if Pembroke will beat Clontarf in the Leinster Senior Cup final. They require only 138 runs for victory and have eight wickets to fall. Play will be resumed this evening at 6 o'clock.

On a very easy wicket on Saturday the majority of the Clontarf batsmen treated the bowling with undue respect, and had they gone for the bowling in the same manner as did Capranl, Bourke and McMahon, the 300 mark might have been passed.

Capranl, who scored 51, was particularly aggressive, his innings including ten fours. McMahon, who went in ninth wicket down, brought the spectators to their feet by hitting Murray for three fours from the first three balls he received. He was 21 when Keegan was run out.

The Clontarf innings lasted approximately 4½ hours, and during that time the Pembroke brothers bowled 68 overs, "M. B." bowled 35, and his analysis of seven wickets for 68 probably ranked as the best performance of the day.

In an hour and 55 minutes Pembroke scored 82 runs. Murray showed enterprise in his innings of 38, which ended when Mahoney held a hard drive at mid-off. Dempsey, who is 25 not out, showed restraint and averaged only a run approximately every 4½ minutes. Score:—

—(Advt.)

HOWTH YACHTS FIRST AND SECOND

Most important race at Dun Laoghaire on Saturday was the R.A.Y.C. Corinthian match for Dublin Bay and Howth trophies, in which 11 boats started. In it the visitors scored the first and second, Pauline (R. N. Guinness) and Leila, respectively, while the bay class took third prize with Eileen, next coming Rio. The handicap did not work out happily in another R.A.Y.C. match for cruisers, which the limit boat, Windward (J. J. O'Leary), won with plenty to spare. Punctilio taking second prize.

With the handicaps in abeyance, the winners in two D.B.S.C. cruiser matches were not defined; and in Section I. matches for 18-footers in Acushla and in Section II. Tumbler, Sonia, Mercia, Evora, and Scallywag finished in the order named. Maureen won the 21-Footers' match. Inchsale and Geraldine taking second and third prizes on handicap; and the handicap winners in the Mermaids' race were Minx, Ruby, and Daphne. Coquette won the Jubilee Cup handicap race and won, while the other prizes on handicap went to Necta, Alfa, and Phyllis.

DALKEY REGATTA

With the Dublin Bay fleets reinforced by large contingents from Skerries, Howth, Sutton and Clontarf, the Regatta at Dalkey yesterday was a great success. Garavogue won the 21-Footers' match, with Innisfallen and Naneen second and third, while among the 17-Footers, Eileen was first home, followed by Aura and Silver Moon. Maria won the Cruisers' handicap, Mercia and Evora taking second and third prizes. Coquette and Mollis were first and second in the Wag match, and other winners in their respective classes were Oona, Sylvia, Shiela and Curlew.

SKERRIES S.C.

Enigma (P. J. Brannigan) was first across the winning line in the Rockabill race for the Fitzpatrick Cup. 12 competed.

KILKENNY REGAIN HURLING TITLE

KILKENNY..... 3-9 DUBLIN..... 2-6

Kilkenny regained the Leinster senior hurling title at Kilkenny yesterday when they beat Dublin (holders) by 3-9 to 2-6. It was a dour game, with little room for spectacular play. Dublin turned over with a lead of two points (2-5 to 2-3), but after scoring 4 goal after resuming Kilkenny never looked back, and were convincing winners.

Cork—Waterford 3-7, Limerick 4-3. Drogheda—Louth 3-10, Meath 1-5. Carrick-on-Shannon — Roscommon 2-12, Leitrim 1-3.

Cavan—Cavan 22 pts., Tyrone 6 pts. Coolock—Fingallians 4-5, Clanna Gael 1-6; St. Margaret's 3-11, St. Mary's 2-5. Belfast—Antrim 7-0, Galway 6-8.

GYMKHANA AT BALMORAL

At Balmoral show grounds on Saturday riding, driving and jumping competitions were held in aid of the Northern Ireland Red Cross Agricultural Fund. The attendance included the Governor and the Duchess of Abercorn, Lord Londonderry, Lord Glentoran, Sir Basil and Lady Brooke, and Sir Milne Barbour. First prize-winners were:—

Riding horses, any height, ridden by ladies—The Bay (Miss Patricia Davidson); ridden by men—Rathlin (John Bamber). Riding horses, confined to animals the property of Belfast riding schools and ridden by pupils—Miss Jockaw (William Nesbitt). Children's riding classes—Lady (Caroline Blackwood) and Bally-drain (S. J. Agnew).

Trotting.—Mr. George Sangster's Air Boy beat Mr. L. Cleland's Gold Digger later, 1 (Watson).

INTER-CLUB HONOURS FOR LANSDOWNE

Winning four of the six singles, Lansdowne just managed to beat Anglesea by 5 matches to 4 in the final of Class 1 of the men's inter-club competition on Saturday. A particularly interesting match was that in which J. Fitzgibbon gave A. E. Fannin a hard fight for three sets. Results:—

Singles:—R. F. Egan beat P. I. Read —6-0, 6-2; A. E. Fannin beat J. J. Fitzgibbon—6-3, 3-6, 6-3; B. Mathews lost to R. Macbeth—2-6, 6-3, 4-6; T. Egan beat T. Lydon—4-6, 6-4, 6-3; F. W. Peard lost to C. Davis—6-2, 3-6, 3-6; A. H. Archer be

The Psychological Front

Those French prophets who were announcing confidently last week that the invasion of Europe by the Allies would start on July 3rd have been forced to mend their hands. Saturday came and went without any particular excitement, and the soothsayers now have chosen July 14th, the anniversary of the fall of the Bastille, as the date of the Anglo-American attack. It hardly is necessary to say that all these predictions are entirely speculative. The British and Americans, doubtless, have laid their plans; but they assuredly have not taken any outsiders into their confidence, and the feverish guess-work which is in progress throughout the continent merely serves to illustrate the condition of nervous tension which has been developing ever since the British and American forces landed in North Africa last November. The campaigning season in Europe already is well under, weigh. The last two big wars started in the autumn, after the garnering of the continental harvest; but this factor is unlikely to influence the British and Americans in the choice of dates for their attack. Mr. Malcolm Macdonald, British High Commissioner in Ottawa, declared the other day that the "second front" would be established very soon, and Mr. Winston Churchill himself spoke about heavy fighting "before the leaves of autumn fall." It is obvious that, if the British and Americans propose to deliver their attack on Festung Europa during the present year, they must make a start during the next few weeks; but it is quite possible that they may decide to postpone offensive action until next spring in order to give Great Britain and the United States a chance to increase their output of war material to its maximum, and, above all, that they may be able to safeguard the ocean routes against the activities of the German U-boats. Their palpable tactics at the moment are to keep the Axis Powers guessing. The spate of rumour that has been sweeping over Europe during recent weeks is part and parcel of the "war of nerves" which is being waged by the Allies. The British and Americans evidently are trying to shake the moral of the Axis peoples, not alone by an intensification of their air attacks, but also by the establishment of a state of mental uncertainty in the Axis countries. The psychological barrage, which seems to be at its height at present, is just as important as the material barrage for which the British and American air fleets are responsible. The world is witnessing the development of a totally new technique of war.

In the meantime, activity of one kind and another is increasing in the Mediterranean, where the crop of rumours is particularly rich. On several occasions since the capture of Tunis and Bizerta it has been announced, with every show of confidence, that imposing naval formations have left Gibraltar for the Mediterranean, and that the British Fleet has been reinforced by battleships from the United States. The latest story is that two of Great Britain's mightiest warships, the King George V. and the Howe, have arrived in Mediterranean waters; and, if half the ships that have been reported from La Linea have passed through the Straits of Gibraltar, the Allied Fleet in the Middle Sea must be a truly formidable force. For the moment, the Allied commanders seem to be concentrating on air attacks. Sicily has been coming in for particular attention, and, according to Italian commentators, Palermo has virtually ceased to exist as a point of military importance. There can be no doubt that the British and Americans are increasing the intensity of their air raids on Sicily, and that the Axis Powers are stiffening the measure of their resistance. For a while Allied bombers seemed to be able to do almost what they liked during their visits to the Italian islands; but now British and American pilots report the presence of numerous fighters, which seem to be putting up spirited fights. Most of the attacking in the Mediterranean area is being done by the Americans, while the British are extending their offensive against Western Germany. During the week-end bombs were dropped on Ostia and Fiumicino, both of which are situated only about ten miles to the south-west of Rome, and, although most of the serious bombing still is concentrated on Sicily and Sardinia, several points on the Italian mainland have been attacked within the past week. The one most obvious result of all this Nervenkrieg in the Mediterranean has been to give the Russians the breathing space which they needed so badly. In the normal course of events the German High Command would have mounted its offensive against the Soviets before the end of June, if not even earlier. The fact that both sides in Russia are continuing to mark time suggests that there has been method in the apparent madness of the rumour-mongers. Manifestly, the war never can be ended without the establishment of a "second front"; but the campaign on the psychological front is an important preliminary, on the outcome of which eventual success or failure may depend.

Ribbon Building

We ask no apology for our insistence on the control of building after the war. This country has suffered badly enough from the haphazard building of the years following the Great War of 1914-'18; the so-called Howth road is as good an example as any other of what can result from speculative building without a plan. Dublin, however, has suffered less than the majority of cities on the other side of the Channel. Not so many suburbs are disfigured by the evil of "ribbon-building"—which may be defined as the practice of constructing houses along each side of a road without development of the "hinterland." Our hope is that the obnoxious practice will not spread during the "boom" period which is likely to follow this war; but it certainly will spread if liberty is left to the individual house-builder. Any normal man wishes to make money—as much money as he can. If he sees a chance of constructing a house that will bring him a satisfactory rent for many years, he will construct it; he may be sufficiently far-sighted to contemplate a future in which his property will be required for the completion of a city plan, but his reckoning is that, in that event, he will be able to ask a "fancy" price for his property. This matter has been disturbing British consciences for some time past. There are many people across the Channel who recall the so-called "development" of the post-war years, and demand Government measures to put a stop to similar "development" during the years that will follow the termination of the present war. The House of Lords debated the subject in part recently when it gave a second reading to the Restriction of Ribbon Development (Temporary Development) Bill, with the strong approval of Mr. Noel Baker, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of War Transport. The bill was challenged on various technical grounds, but was approved on the Minister's assurance that ribbon development was not only a "social and planning evil," but also a "transport evil of a serious kind." We do not know the British Government's intentions, although we are satisfied that most of the people have been educated to a sufficient degree of realism to demand that they shall live in more decent, comfortable and attractive surroundings in the future than in the past. If the Irish people possess the spirit, they will make a similar demand of their present and future legislators. They will put an end to "ribbon building"—which entails a waste of land, a waste of transport and a waste of sewerage. They may not be sufficiently advanced to call for the adoption of a wholesale planning system, but, at all events, they will have common-sense enough to insist that land which might be utilised at comparatively little expense will not be permitted to run to waste while the houses along the roadside extend farther and farther from the city. They will realise that, however flattering it may be to realise that their city is so many miles across, ribbon development is a luxury that brings money into very few pockets—least of all, into their own—and that planned development will be both cheaper and more sightly in the long run.

FILM NOTES

BY OUR CINEMA CORRESPONDENT.

The Light of Heart (Savoy) is one of Emlyn Williams's least remarkable plays, but it has gained enormously by transcription to the screen. In the hands of a less distinguished actor than Monty Woolley the part of Madden Thomas, the "has been" character actor, whose career has been wrecked by drink, could easily seem sordid and unsympathetic, but Woolley plays him with a dignity and understanding that makes him admirable, and even likeable. His manners and appearance are very similar to those of Sheridan Whiteside ("The Man Who Came to Dinner"), but the drunken old actor has a streak of pathos that was absent in Woolley's last splendid characterisation. He receives excellent support from Ida Lupino, who gives a beautiful performance as his crippled daughter, and Sara Allgood, Melville Cooper and Cornel Wilde round off a thoroughly efficient cast. Irving Pichel's intelligent direction adds greatly to the pleasure of a most enjoyable picture.

Alban Chambers keeps the audience humming with a well-chosen selection of current tunes.

The Vanishing Virginian (Adelphi), an unpretentious film, whose advent was very under-publicised, is an absorbing and beautiful little piece. The story, sentimental if you like, but not cloying, tells of a prosperous lawyer at the beginning of the present century, and shows how he and his family kept happy and contented both when fate was kind to them and when disaster threatened. Frank Morgan's performance as Robert Yancey, the lawyer, is restrained and natural, and Kathryn Grayson, as his younger daughter, looks attractive and nearly shatters the sound track with her vocal variations on a Strauss waltz. Highest honours, however, must go to Spring Byington for a beautiful performance as Mrs. Yancey. A charming picture.

The title of the other film at this house is We'll Meet Again. More than that it would be unkind to say.

Jacare (Metropole) has the ageless appeal of all pictures connected with the capture of wild animals. It is produced with the efficiency and vigour which have for so long been associated with Frank Buck. Also on the programme is Fiesta, which makes up in colour for what it lacks in construction.

High Explosive (Royal) starts rather unpromisingly, but improves as it goes on. Sound characterisations by Chester Morris and Jean Parker make this melodrama about the transport of nitro-glycerine credible. Interesting, but not inspired.

Sin Town (Carlton) is a ponderous Western, with a traditional story, "ham" acting, and apathetic direction. There is, however, a clever performance by a character actor named Ward Bond, in quite a small rôle. Moonlight in Havana is the support.

The Man Who Returned to Life (Regent), Thursday: Sis Hopkins. Who Done It? (Astoria).

JOE LINNANE TO MARRY

Joe Linnane, actor, golfer, compere, and Ireland's best-known radio personality, is to marry Joan Plunkett, popular Abbey actress, this month. The wedding will take place in St. Kevin's, Harrington street, on July 15th.

Familiar to hundreds of thousands of Irish listeners, Joe Linnane is an accountant. Since he first appeared in "Question Time" on Radio Eireann he has made numerous broadcasts from the B.B.C. Just recently he completed a series of broadcasts for the B.B.C. Overseas Service.

Joan Plunkett, a small-part player in the Abbey Theatre, made a name for herself when she appeared in the principal part in David Sears's "The Jocund Vine." She has appeared on the stage with her future husband on more than one occasion.

ROCKWELL COLLEGE ENTERTAINMENT

The President and Committee of the Rockwell College Union gave an entertainment in honour of the Rockwell Metropolitan Regatta crews and the Inter-Union golfing team in Jury's Hotel, Dublin, on Saturday night. About 80 guests were present, and Major J. J. Comerford, President of the Union, presided.

Mr. T. Clery, Revenue Commissioner, presented the Rev. Father V. J. Dinan, President of the College, with the Inter-Schools' Union Golf Cup. Mr. P. J. Fogarty presented the individual cup for golf to Mr. W. J. O'Neill. Cups for rowing competitions were also awarded.

Major Comerford thanked Mr. C. W. Arnold, captain of Trinity College Rowing Club, for the facilities his club had so kindly provided.

Attempted Theft from Clery's.—A sentence of 14 days' imprisonment in Arbour Hill Military Prison was imposed on Michael Crosbie (22), North Cumberland street, Dublin, by District Justice Lennon in Dublin on Saturday. Crosbie was charged with having attempted to steal two shirts and four collars in Clery's bargain basement.

Tailor's Presser Jailed.—John McMahon (37), otherwise known as Pierce Mulcahy of Lower Sherrard street, Dublin, a tailor's presser, was sentenced to two months' imprisonment by District Justice Lennon in Dublin on Saturday for stealing a lady's bicycle.

T.C.D. NOTES

BY OUR CORRESPONDENT.

TRINITY Term comes to an end, the Engineering School Entrance and Backhouse Prize Examinations take place, and the Library will be closed until the 19th inst.

The Second Summer Commencements last Wednesday were attended by so large a crowd that many were denied entrance to the hall where the conferring was taking place, and this, despite the fact that the greater majority of undergraduates had already evacuated their rooms in College. Afterwards successful graduates were chaired in the Front Square, cameras clicked busily, and there was a little promiscuous water-throwing. Among the recipients of degrees was Mr. Hanus Drechsler, well-known in College acting circles, and the producer of many successful Players' productions, who became a B.Sc. Mr. John Havelock Nelson, familiar in the musical life of Dublin, took an M.Sc.

On Thursday last candidates for Dublin University for the University Senate Constituencies were nominated. For a while, doubtless, College spheres will be invaded by a virulent "election fever" as an after-effect of the more universal devastations of the general elections.

"PHIL." HON. MEMBERS

The following have been elected Honorary Members of the Philosophical Society during the Session 1942-43:—Mr. F. S. Stewart (Mod.), B.A., M.B., etc., an ex-President of the Society; Mr. J. S. Treanor (Mod.), B.A., an ex-Hon. Secretary; Mr. R. O. V. Lloyd, Sch. (Mod.), B.A., M.Sc., an ex-Hon. Treasurer, and Judge C. Wilson.

The results of the election of officers of the D.U. Experimental Science Association have been announced, and are as follows:—President Dr. Webb, M.A., Ph.D.; correspondence secretary, F. I. Hurley, Sch.; record secretary, Miss M. Houston; treasurer, A. C. Nevill, Sch.; librarian, D. C. Reynolds. The Council consists of the following members:—F. H. Mann, Sch.; W. E. Seeds, G. D. Gilliland, Miss P. Stevens, Miss E. Falkiner, and Miss K. Mitchell.

On Tuesday 13th inst., the Irish University Swimming Association will hold their fifth annual gala at the Blackrock Baths. The contests will begin at 7 p.m. sharp, and will include the Chute Cup (open 100 yards). A water polo match will be played between Pembroke and Clontarf. This time the hosts are the Trinity Swimming Club, and it is to be hoped that Trinity swimming "fans" will turn out in large numbers to support the event.

OBITUARY

LADY ELEANOR McGRATH

The death has occurred at a Dublin nursing home of Lady Eleanor McGrath, widow of Sir Joseph McGrath, LL.D., a former Registrar of the National University of Ireland. She was the mother of Very Rev. Fergal McGrath, S.J., Superior, St. Francis Xavier's Church, Upper Gardiner street, Dublin; Mrs. D. J. Bolger, Gorey, and Mrs. G. Kane Smith, Carlow. Lady McGrath was the elder daughter of the late Mr. P. F. McAllister, who was chief accountant of the Dublin Port and Docks Board. Her brother was the late Mr. Alister McAllister, the well-known dramatist and writer of detective fiction, who wrote under the pseudonyms of Anthony P. Wharton and Lynn Brock. She is survived by her sister, Miss Mabel McAllister, Southbourne, and her brothers, Lieut.-Col. E. J. McAllister, D.S.O., Tavistock, and Dr. V. J. McAllister, Penzance.

Lady McGrath's mother was, before her marriage, Miss Catherine Morgan, a member of a well-known Dublin family, of whom, one, Francis Morgan, was prominent in the Young Ireland movement. Through her father, Lady McGrath was related to the historian, Dr. R. R. Madden. In her younger days Lady McGrath was an active worker for charitable causes. She was for many years hon. treasurer of the Pembroke branch of the N.S.P.C.C., and a member of the City of Dublin Committee of the Red Cross during the last war. She was also a member of the committee of the Power Lalor Home, Mountjoy square.

YOUGHAL DOCTOR HONOURED

The District Council of Gower, South Wales, has congratulated its Medical Officer of Health, Dr. G. E. Donovan, a native of youghal and graduate of the N.U.I., on the distinction conferred on him recently by the Royal Society of Medicine, which invited him to London to read a paper dealing with an apparatus he has invented for recording heart sounds on a fluorescent screen. The title of the paper was "Some Observations on the Adaption of the Double Beam Cathode Ray Oscilloscope to Biology and Medicine." Dr. Donovan visited Ireland last March and demonstrated his apparatus to the Institute of Electrical Engineers at a meeting in Trinity College, Dublin. In that paper it was stated that the apparatus enables a permanent photographic record to be made of heart sounds and electrical variations of the heart.

FLOWER SHOW

The Foxrock, Cabinteely and Kill-o'-the-Grange Branch of the Irish Red Cross Society benefited by a Flower Show held on Saturday last at the Tullow Hall, Brighton road, Carrickmines, by permission of the Rev. Canon Young and the Select Vestry.

The gardens of Carrickmines House, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Culhane, were thrown open in aid of the branch, and a tennis tournament, organised by Mr. E. M. Maguire, attracted numerous competitors. Other attractions were croquet and a variety of garden games and competitions.

The results of the Flower Show were:—Arrangement Flowers, Vase—1, Mrs. C. Orpen; 2, Lady Meldon. Arrangement Flowers, Bowl—1, Mrs. Phillpotts; 2, Miss Martin; highly commended, Miss Creery. CRUISKEEN LAWN

By Myles Na gCopaleen

I FOUND myself going homewards the other evening, not in a cab but in that odd mobile apartment with the dun-coloured wall-paper, a brown study. Long long thoughts occupied my mind. I was examining myself according to occult criteria which substitute for "time," "death" and other gaffes of the frail human intellect that blinding instant of vision which simultaneously begins, explains and closes all. Such insights as I have been vouchsafed give warning that all of us will encounter serious trouble in due time, for the upper limits of our mental "existences" bristle with complexities. Your politician will assure you that the post-war world is the great problem that looms ahead, but those of us who do not spend all our time in this universe well know that the real problem will be the post-world war.

Yet going home that evening I was remembering my small self, thinking of all that had happened through the years, re-examining the mélange of achievement and disillusion that I call my life. Praise I have received, blame also: yet how vain are both, how easy of purchase in the mart of men! I feel that one thing at least stands forever to my credit in the golden ledgers—the rather generous provision I made for the widow Manity and her children when her husband—my best friend—died after a long and painful illness. Poor suffering Hugh Manity, I kept the promise I made to him on his death bed.

When I reached home I was in an odd mood. I felt . . . old. Age and achievement hath like brandy a mellowness yet withal a certain languor. My daughter was in the next room humming and putting on her hat. I called her.

"Hullo, Bella. Sit down for a moment, will you."

"Yes, daddy. What's the matter?"

A long watery stare out of the window. The pipe is produced and fiddled with.

"Bella . . . . . how old are you?"

"Nineteen, daddy. Why?"

Another frightful pause.

"Bella, we've known each other for a long time. Nineteen years. I remember you when you were very small. You were a good child."

"Yes, daddy."

More embarrassment.

"Bella . . . . . I have been a good daddy to you, haven't I? At least I have tried to be."

"You are the best daddy in the world. What are you trying to tell me?"

"Bella . . . . . I want to say something to you. I'm . . . . I'm going to give you a surprise. Bella . . . . please don't think ill of me but . . . . but . . . . but, Bella——"

With a choking noise she has jumped up and has her arms about me.

"O daddy, I know, I know! I know what you are going to say! You . . . . you're not my daddy at all. You found me one day . . . . when I was very small . . . . when I was a tiny baby . . . . and you took me home . . . . and cared for me . . . . and watched over me . . . . and now you find you have been in love with me all these years. . . . ."

With a scream I was on my feet. Soon I was racing down the street to the local cinema, clutching in my inside pocket the old-fashioned Mauser, a present from Lamar Greenwood for doing a few jobs for him at a time when it was neither profitable nor popular. I reached the cinema and demanded to see the manager. Soon the suave pink-jowled ruffian appeared and invited me into his private office. Very shortly afterwards two shots rang out and I sincerely hope I will be given an opportunity of explaining to the jury that I had merely wished to suggest to my daughter that as a father of a family who had worked and scraped for years to keep other people in luxury, it was about time I should be relieved of the humiliation of having to press my own trousers.

400 LIONS BORN IN DUBLIN ZOO

Three lion cubs, born in the Dublin Zoological Gardens five weeks ago, brought the grand total born there to over 400, a record to be proud of, said D. R. Lloyd Praeger, who presided at the Members' Breakfast of the Royal Zoological Society of Ireland, which was held in the Gardens, Phœnix Park, on Saturday.

Among the animals presented to the Zoological Gardens during the past month were a white jackdaw by Mr. J. Donoghue, Swords; a pair of fan-tailed pigeons by Miss McCutcheon; a collection of 24 birds by the Rev. David Hanson; a badger by Colonel Harman, Oldcastle; and a pair of budgerigars and a pair of hares by Mr. A. Ladd.

After the breakfast the Zoo raffle was held, and the following were successful:—1st, Miss E. Donnelly, Raheny; 2nd, Mr. C. B. Jones, Sandyford; 3rd, Mr. E. Beale, Dublin; 4th, Miss F. Craigie, Finglas; and 5th, Mr. A. J. O'Donoghue, Dublin. Mrs. A. Gordon drew the tickets.

Prizes Presented.—The Dublin Executive of the Gaelic League, at 14 Parnell square, Dublin, on Saturday, presented to children from the Corporation playgrounds, under the auspices of the Civics Institute, prizes won by them at the Dublin Feis. Two scholarships were awarded to the Meath Gaelic Hostel, one to a boy and one to a girl in the playgrounds for their knowledge of Irish.

LONDON LETTER

59 FLEET ST., LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

DEAN SWIFT'S dictum—that whoever could make two ears of corn and two blades of grass grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before deserved better of mankind, and did more essential service to his country than the whole race of politicians put together—was praised by Mr. B. S. Hudson at the great Farm Sunday celebrations today at Ormskirk, Lancashire. The speech was relayed at Farm Sunday celebrations all over the country. "We are starting this month on the toughest harvesting job of our history," said Mr. Hudson. "It will need the united efforts of all of us if it is to be safely gathered in. First to last, it will probably mean the best part of 100 million tons. That is why we have asked for half a million volunteers from the towns. To these volunteers I would say—'Do not think of the harvest as the gathering in of the corn. Remember that there will still be the potatoes and beet long into the autumn.' I know they are not so romantic, that they involve hard and back-breaking work, but they are every bit as vital at the present time."

Beer from Potatoes

Experiments are being made on the possibility of replacing barley with potatoes in the brewing of beer by Dr. H. H. Hopkins, Professor of Brewing and Industrial Fermentation at the University of Birmingham. This research is being undertaken at the request of Lord Woolton, in case it ever becomes necessary to use surplus potatoes to save barley. Professor Hopkins said yesterday that about one-twentieth of the barley now used in beer might be replaced by potatoes without any difference in taste being noticed. Each year 650,000 tons of malting barley are used here to make beer. Out of this some 120,000 tons of feeding-stuffs are obtained. The only imported material used in the brewing is sugar, of which seventy to one hundred thousand tons go to the brewers each year.

Enthusiastic Riversiders

Twickenham Allotment Holders' Association had 237 members at the end of 1941; at the end of last month that figure had been increased to 820, and the target for the year is 1,000. The association has its own nursery and glasshouses, and raised 5,500 tomato plants for sale to members this season. Total sales for the first five months of the year exceeded £500, the profits going to the local hospital.

An Irish Actress

Miss Joyce Redman, the County Mayo stage and screen star, who had a first night triumph in "Shadow and Substance" in May, is taking over to-morrow night the child-wife lead in "Claudia" at the St. Martin's Theatre, where Miss Pamela Brown, who also had a sensational first night success, has been playing for nearly three hundred and fifty performances. Miss Brown has had to give up because of a breakdown in health, but hopes to return to the stage in some months' time.

Famous Irish-Canadian

Dr. Robert J. Manion, A.R.P. Chief for the whole of the Dominion of Canada, and former leader of the Canadian Conservative Party there, who has died at the age of 61, was of Irish parentage on both sides. He was a grizzled veteran of wars of both bullets and ballots, and a distinguished career marked by many brilliant successes in medicine, war, politics and literature. Elected to the Canadian Commons in 1917, he was Minister of Soldiers' Re-establishment in the Meighan Cabinet of 1921, and later Postmaster-General. In the Bennett Administration of 1930 he was Minister of Railways and Canals, and became leader of the Canadian Opposition party in 1938. He paid a special visit to Britain last year.

Cattle Disease Research

Members of the Ayrshire Cattle Herd Society, in calling for immediate further research into mastitis in cattle, state that loss of liquid milk fit for human consumption through various diseases which affect dairy cattle, amounts in Scotland to something like £20,000,000 a year, and that mastitis is one of the major causes. They demand the setting up of a new research organisation in Scotland, controlled by the Secretary of State, to co-operate with practical farmers in a new effort to defeat the menace.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

A Family Affair

There is one rather interesting feature about the list of candidates for the universities' seats in the Senate. As I mentioned the other day, my old friend Eoin ("the Pope") O'Mahony has announced at the last minute his intention of standing for Dublin University. What—through ignorance—I failed to remark was that one of the candidates for the National University is his sister, Mrs. Cotter, of Clonakilty, Co. Cork.

There are three women in all among the eight candidates for "National"; the other two are Mrs. Concannon, a sitting member, and Professor Agnes O'Farrelly. It will certainly be interesting if Eoin and Mrs. Cotter both secure election; for I am quite sure that there has never before been a brother-sister combination in the national Parliament.
